Operating throughout North America, CDT International is the largest and best equipped privately held company servicing the Structural Restoration and Remediation industry.

CDT International provides a wide range of services funded by owners of both residences and businesses of all sizes. Additionally, CDT International offers cost effective solutions to a number of insurance companies for provision of services to their clientele.

Due to its reach and depth in the market, CDT International is recognized as a key stakeholder and one of the most comprehensive service providers in its occupied industry. Offering state-of-the-art technology, process and environmental controls, CDT International has the ability and opportunity to address virtually any service requirement that its clients may ever have. With high annual turnover, projects range in size from small projects to multi-million dollar recoveries.

Above the outbound products and services offered directly to restoration and remediation customers, CDT International also operates a unique education program in which they are able to train both internal resources as well as clients and insurance companies. The CDT International course offering is fully certified by the IICRC as a part of their education efforts.

CDT International has a wide reach network of partners and contractors in addition to providing service locations throughout the Canada. Its professional affiliations include memberships in ; the RIA (formerly ASCR), IICRC, IAQA, BOMA, IFMA, and the ARMA.

CDT International holds and maintains a large warehoused stock of thousands of pieces of professional grade equipment. These include : Air Movers, LGR's, Heaters, Desiccant Dehumidifiers, and Generators. Should the need arise, CDT International is positioned to take advantage of direct relationships with equipment manufacturers to offset any additional needs that may be required. This capital overhead is maintained in order to provide the rapid response to client locations. The expeditious nature of this model prevents undue residual damage to client property, reduces rental costs and removes the quality and timeliness variable of acquiring 3rd party equipment.

As CDT International is a key stakeholder in the structural restoration and remediation industry, they are recognized as being a primary source of experience and information for many other companies doing business in these sectors. CDT International has become a reliable hub of information and consultation to the industry where experience and a track record of execution are essential and go hand in hand with success.
